EARLY SUMMER SWIM—With temperatures already reaching into the high 90s in Hancock County, this apparently pregnant doe Wednesday decided a dip in the Mississippi Sound off Buccaneer State Park in Waveland would be appropriate. She was first spotted in the water about 7 a.m. and was near exhaustion when rescuers were finally able to bring her to shore after several times wading dangerously close to the area's notorious Deep Hole. As deep hole drowning season approaches:

Corps offering no help; civil defense, city police begin preventive action

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Hancock County and Waveland officials again this year are coordinating efforts to prevent further drownings in a deep hole in the surf near Buccaneer State Park.

U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' officials are seeking federal funds to fill the deadly crater, but can promise no action to prevent drownings this summer as the deep hole drowning season approaches.

The underwater cavity in the Mississippi Sound some 1,500 feet offshore from Gulfside Methodist Assembly Center and Buccaneer State Park in Waveland has claimed the lives of some 25 adults and children during the last 15 years.

A 1966 U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' dredging project forming a sand beach from Ballentine Street in Bay St. Louis to Bayou Caddy apparently created a 500 foot by 800 underwater crater surrounded by relatively shallow water.

The sand berm was designed by the Corps to prevent Beach Boulevard from eroding due to storm wave action.

A quicksand mud bottom, ranging from one to 20 feet in depth, was added to the hole in 1979 when spoils from a nearby Bayou Caddy Corps dredging operation were dumped in an attempt to fill the cavity, apparently making the hole more dangerous than it was previously.

Warning signs have also been placed on the beach by the City of Waveland, and the Hancock County Civil Defense installed markers offshore around the deadly hole itself.

Mayor John Longo of Waveland is seeking assistance in creating a fishing reef to ring the hole and deter swimmers, but funds are not available for this project either.

After a U.S. District Court hearing in Biloxi last year a federal judge decided the Corps was responsible for deaths of at least eight deep hole victims.

At least nine of the drownings have occurred in the cavity on weekend afternoons in June, and June 4 will mark one year ago when a Slidell man

Corps to dredge Bayou Cadet access channel

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Fishermen with large boats docked at Bayou Cadet Marina should have easier access to the Mississippi Sound in mid-summer after a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' maintenance dredging project is completed.

W. Wilson Wehre, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission executive director, Tuesday revealed the Corps will maintain dredge the Bayou Cadet entrance channel to its original depth of eight feet deep and width of 100 feet.

However, federal funding reductions may eliminate any future maintenance dredging by the Corps.

The project will restore the manmade channel which extends eastward from the bayou's mouth then turns southeastward and ends where a natural eight-foot sound depth begins.

In a letter to E. Michael Nicaise, County chancery clerk, Lt. Col. Ronald A. Krizman, acting chief of the Corps'

Operation Division in Mobile, Ala., states the channel is approximately 7,800 feet long.

The acting chief says Corps surveys determined the access channel's present depth is about four feet.

Dredged material will be deposited in the sound southeast of the marina and channel in an area determined to be some 10-feet deep, Krizman reports.

The Corps originally planned to also dredge a channel and two turning basins in the lower reaches of the bayou upstream reaching to Bordages, Brothers Marina and Shipyard, but easements for upland spoils disposal areas secured by the county have expired and caused that portion of the project to be delayed or eliminated, Wehre said.

The commission director reported county officials will meet with Corps representatives to pursue the

Bambini to appeal Chancery ruling

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Cinque Bambini Partnership and several other Hancock County mineral and property owners plan to appeal a recent Chancery Court ruling to the Mississippi Supreme Court.

The Chancery Court decision grants Mississippi ownership of land and underground minerals located seaward of a mean high water mark anywhere the tide ebbs and flows.

Such boundaries apparently only can be determined accurately by a marine surveyor.

Ernest Taylor of Jackson, one of several attorneys representing the Hancock mineral and property owners, Monday revealed that he plans to file the appeal with the Hancock Chancery Clerk's office at the Courthouse in Bay St. Louis sometime next week.

William L. Stewart of Gulfport, chancellor of Mississippi's Eighth Chancery Court District, recently ruled in favor of the state after a review of testimony and evidence presented in a lengthy hearing last year.

Cinque Bambini, the mineral and property owners, and Phillips Petroleum Co. sued the state some four years ago to establish clear title to some 2,400 acres roughly bounded on the north and east sides by Jourdan River, west by Hwy. 603 and south by Bayou LaCroux.

The complainants contend—based on land descriptions, property tax payment receipts, professional studies and a headlands consideration in the Public Trust Doctrine—that they own the bottom of most relatively small waterways within their property boundaries.

The State Mineral Lease Commission several years ago leased mineral rights in that area to Saga Petroleum U.S., Inc. based on a Mississippi Marine Resources Council map published with the assistance of Gulf Regional Planning Commission in the early 1970's outlining state-owned land.

Saga is a co-defendant in the case.

In the course of the trial, the map was found to be inaccurate, granting an excessive amount of land to the state.

Stewart's ruling also apparently gives the state any property seaward of the mean high water mark which has been artificially moved further inward by the digging of a boat slip, canal or lake with tidal influence.

Annexed area residents planning suit against Bay

By BRENT MACEY

A group of citizens in the annexed areas of Bay St. Louis, angered that the city has not provided sewerage, water, paved streets and gas services promised some 15 years ago, are planning to sue the city.

Mike Harris, resident of Bigmark Street, said some 30 citizens have met twice and are currently gathering money to pay a lawyer to take their case all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Friday, Harris said the attorney, whom he would not name, has advised the group to sue for damages resulting from not receiving city services.

A second possible suit may concern the city's failure to provide those services as promised in an agreement some 15 years ago, he said.

According to Harris, the attorney told the group, "We have a very good case."

The attorney also advised the group against attempting to secede from the city, since such a move would involve proving some sort of flaw existed in the original annexing procedure, Harris said.

He told the court generally do not favor seceding," Harris said.

Harris noted the city agreed to supply the annexed areas of the city with water, sewer and paved streets no later than five years from the date those areas were annexed.

Citizens from the annexed areas of the city have approached the council from time to time in the past, pressing for city services, but have been told they continue to pay city taxes and receive no benefits.

However, Harris said a recent incident occurred through the city's fault. A local contractor was hired to build a road near the center of Bay St. Louis, but the contractor was not paid for his work.

As a result, the contractor was forced to leave the area, and the road was never completed.

Harris said the city has a long history of not providing services to the annexed areas, and he believes the citizens have a strong case for suing the city.

to have a meeting on May 10."

Following that meeting the group contacted an attorney who addressed them at a second meeting May 24.

Harris said a group of some 30 citizens attended both meetings.

"They weren't the same 30 people though," he added.

He said the group has now agreed to raise enough money to pay the attorney whatever cost is necessary to take the case to the Supreme Court.

"We're in the process of raising the money now," he said.

He stated the attorney has not yet set the fee.

He said the fee will be paid in one lump sum.

GOVERNOR WILLIAM F. WINTER, center, receives a certificate of appreciation from the Citizens of Hancock County for his leadership in the state's volunteerism program. Standing next to him are representatives of the Hancock County Citizens' Council and the Hancock County Volunteer Program.

Mrs. Geraldine Lang of Bay St. Louis was presented a Distinguished Service Award at a recent fifth annual Voluntary Action Fair in Jackson for her contributions in the field of the aging.

The fair, which was sponsored by the Governor's Office of Voluntary Citizen Participation, was designed to demonstrate and encourage ways in which persons can contribute in their communities through volunteerism.

"This event allowed us to recognize the valuable service volunteers provide agencies and individual citizens," said Ruth Wilson, director of the Office of Voluntary Citizen Participation. "Without volunteers, some services in this state could not be delivered as effectively."

Mrs. Lang organized the Concerned Citizens of Hancock County as a volunteer in the Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

She spearheaded a study of local utility rate structures, and as a result, the City of Bay St. Louis has adjusted the utility rates of those who couldn't pay.

Mrs. Lang worked with Gov. William F. Winter's Strategy Council on Kindergarten and Compulsory Education and organized a forum in Hancock County, inviting legislators and educators to participate.

GARDENERS' REWARD

The rest of May and June are probably the best gardening months of the year. This is when all our efforts start to pay off as spring-planted vegetables become ripe for harvest.

You will probably be picking your first tomatoes, sweet corn and snap beans. Cabbage, turnips, mustard, English peas, beets, broccoli and Irish potatoes are also ready to harvest.

As vegetables near harvest, you might want to consider these suggestions so you can reap all the quality and goodness your garden has to offer.

To avoid bird damage and water bursting in tomatoes, pick them before they are fully ripe.

On sweet corn, start checking regularly for earworm eggs when silks first appear. Spray if needed. The ears should feel firm when mature, usually about three weeks after first silking.

Dig Irish potatoes when the vines have died. If the skin easily rubs off the potatoes, give them several more days to mature before digging. Keep newly harvested potatoes out of the sun, store in a cool, dark place.

Don't try to hasten maturity of bulb onions by breaking over the tops. As the tops begin to yellow and fall over, you can speed maturity by gently lifting the bulbs with a fork to break some of the roots.

After you've harvested early vegetables, don't let the space go to waste. Prepare the site for peas and beans, squash, sweet potatoes, pumpkins or fall tomatoes.

GRASSCUTTERS

Green, well-manicured lawns are a sign that the grass-cutting season is here again. Your lawn mower is one of the most common yard tools, but it also can be a dangerous one if it's not handled correctly.

Before mowing, always clear the yard of rocks, sticks and other trash. These objects can be picked up by the mower blade and thrown with great force. Broken car windows, window panes and injuries to people every year are reminders of this fact.

You also should dress properly for mowing your lawn. This means sturdy shoes and close fitting slacks. Don't go barefooted or wear sandals when you mow your lawn.

Bits 'n pieces

It wasn't too long ago when everyone was talking about the area having so much rain, and now the conversation has turned to the lack of moisture.

We know there was some severe cold this past winter, but it sure hasn't hurt local gardeners and farmers.

This is probably the best season we have seen for locally grown produce available so early in the year.

Saturday morning we visited the Farmers' Market and were surprised at the amount of locally grown produce available.

City slicker farmer Joe Compretta was all smiles talking about being one of the first at the market with locally grown tomatoes this year. He said he was tired of farmers like Edro Lee of Leetown, getting the jump on him, so he planted his tomato plants on March 2.

A mild late winter helped Compretta's tomatoes get the jump on everyone and he joked about it being about three degrees warmer in the city.

To make the best purchases, one has to get up a little early as the market opens at 7 a.m. each Wednesday and Saturday. For those of you who may not know the location, it is held at the Fairgrounds on Longfellow Road.

We were reminded by one of our subscribers Wednesday morning that she is tired of seeing the water puddles across the street from the U.S. Post Office on Main Street.

This lady reports she talked to the person in charge of utility repairs a while back at City Hall and he did not give any indication as to whether Bay St. Louis would ever try and repair the water leak (s).

No rain has fallen here in two weeks, so it does not take an expert to figure out something must be wrong with the water lines if water is very visible and has been for months.

We hope something will be done to correct the situation.

Well tomorrow is the last official working day for our longtime friend Perry Gibson, manager of the Mississippi Power Company's office in Bay St. Louis.

Perry is going to be busy even in retirement as there seem to be a lot of folks out to 'rope him in' on several projects as we have already witnessed at a Tuesday night meeting.

As everyone knows he has been very active in civic, church, state and community endeavors since he arrived in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland area.

We will miss seeing Perry going down Main Street each day. It may be wise for Mrs. Gibson to get her 'honey do list' in early for Perry, so he can plan his time accordingly.

Perry, we hope you enjoy every minute of your retirement and know you will continue to serve our community whenever possible.

Governor William Winter recently returned from an economic mission to Western Europe, which he described as well planned and highly productive. The Governor predicted several European companies interested in investing in American plants would visit Mississippi in the coming months. Winter's mission focused on prospects in West Germany, France, Belgium, Italy, and Yugoslavia. Several firms in those countries expressed interest in joint ventures with Americans, as well as establishing plants of their own. Winter said developing reverse investment possibilities in European countries could have a major positive impact on Mississippi's economy.

Dr. Jim Meredith, director of the Mississippi Research and Development Center, and Bill Hackett, director of the Department of Economic Development, accompanied the governor on the mission. To follow-up on contacts in a professional manner Meredith's staff is preparing detailed information and analyses on Mississippi market conditions, labor arrangement and prospective market growth for interested European companies. Hackett's staff is involved in extensive follow-up work to help attract European investment to Mississippi.

MISS WHEELCHAIR

Entrants now are being accepted for the seventh annual Miss Wheelchair Mississippi Pageant, according to the Governor's Office of Handicapped Services.

Open to all women at least 18 years of age who utilize a wheelchair at least 50 percent of the time for mobility, the June 30-July 1 pageant is designed to acquaint the general public with the productivity, dignity, attractiveness and the basic value of disabled persons who have mobility limitations. One of its main objectives is to stress elimination of architectural barriers in buildings, parks and other facilities that now hinder their use by handicapped persons.

The pageant is not a beauty contest. Contestants are judged on personal accomplishment, personality and pleasing appearance based upon grooming and poise. Marital status is not considered for eligibility.

The winner of the Miss Wheelchair Mississippi Pageant will receive an all-expense paid trip for her and a companion to the Miss Wheelchair America Pageant in Columbus, Ohio, where she will compete for the national title.

Mississippi's first pageant winner, Dixie Lee Etheridge of Greenville in 1975, became Miss Wheelchair America in 1976.

Individuals interested in entering the Miss Wheelchair Mississippi Pageant may obtain further information by contacting Jan Larsen, director, Governor's Office of Handicapped Services, 802 N. State St., Jackson 39201, telephone 354-7745.

The Miss Wheelchair America Pageant was the idea of Dr. Philip K. Wood, an Ohio psychiatrist who wanted to honor a woman confined to a wheelchair by naming her "Miss Wheelchair Ohio." When Dr. Wood's youngest daughter was born, he thought of her as "Miss America - 1990," but he realized that, if she were confined to a wheelchair, she couldn't become Miss America. Thus, he came up with the Miss Wheelchair Ohio contest.

In 1972, Dr. Wood proclaimed a Miss Wheelchair America Pageant with candidates from several states. Other states became interested, and Miss Wheelchair America was incorporated in 1974 by a group of private citizens in Columbus, Ohio.

"Pageants such as this," said Jan Larsen, director of the Governor's Office of Handicapped Services, "work to show that there shouldn't be two separate worlds - one for the handicapped and the other for the non-handicapped. The only difference should be in methods in accomplishing something. Another aim of such pageants is to develop a greater acceptance of the handicapped by employers in business and industry."

Many agencies and other organizations are dedicated to providing excellent services to the handicapped. However, she said, "there is much more than needs to be done to inform the public of the handicapped person's potential for work and contribution to the community and the barriers that hinder their individual development."

A new service designed to assist deaf persons in finding employment is being offered through the Governor's Office of Handicapped Services.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Line, in conjunction with the Governor's Office of Handicapped Services (GOHS).

According to Jan Larsen, GOHS director, any person with access to telephone-teletype (TTY) equipment can now find answers to questions relating to such subjects as consumer problems, food stamps, elderly, service insurance by dialing (toll-free) 1-800-222-7833.

TTY services previously have been available only through some hospitals and other places situated serving the deaf, said Ms. Larsen. Under the new program, deaf persons can communicate directly with Service Line staff to obtain information about state services.

"The purpose of the TTY service is to provide a mechanism of communication through the Service Line to deaf persons in Mississippi," said Ms. Larsen. "It will give the governor's office an opportunity to know what some of the needs of deaf persons are, as well as allow us to assist in finding things out for them."

BLOCK GRANT TASK FORCE

A Community Development Block Grant Task Force has been appointed by Gov. William F. Winter to guide Mississippi as it assumes administrative responsibility for the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program. The task force also is being called upon to recommend a permanent advisory committee to assist the state on a continuing basis.

Comprised of a technical advisory committee and a policy advisory committee, the task force will assist Mississippi in developing program objectives, application procedures and ranking criteria, a public information program, a review process for communities whose applications are not funded and the permanent advisory committee.

Mississippi has been allocated $33,925 million in CDBG funds for fiscal 1982. A CDBG program that addresses Mississippi's needs, according to Gov. Winter, should provide access to these funds by small communities, flexibility for local governments to develop projects that meet their own particular needs such as housing and economic development and maximum use of these funds to address the critical needs.

Recent legislation changes to Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 provide states with the option to administer the CDBG program in fiscal 1982.

Kenny Dill, mayor of West Point, is chairman of the task force.

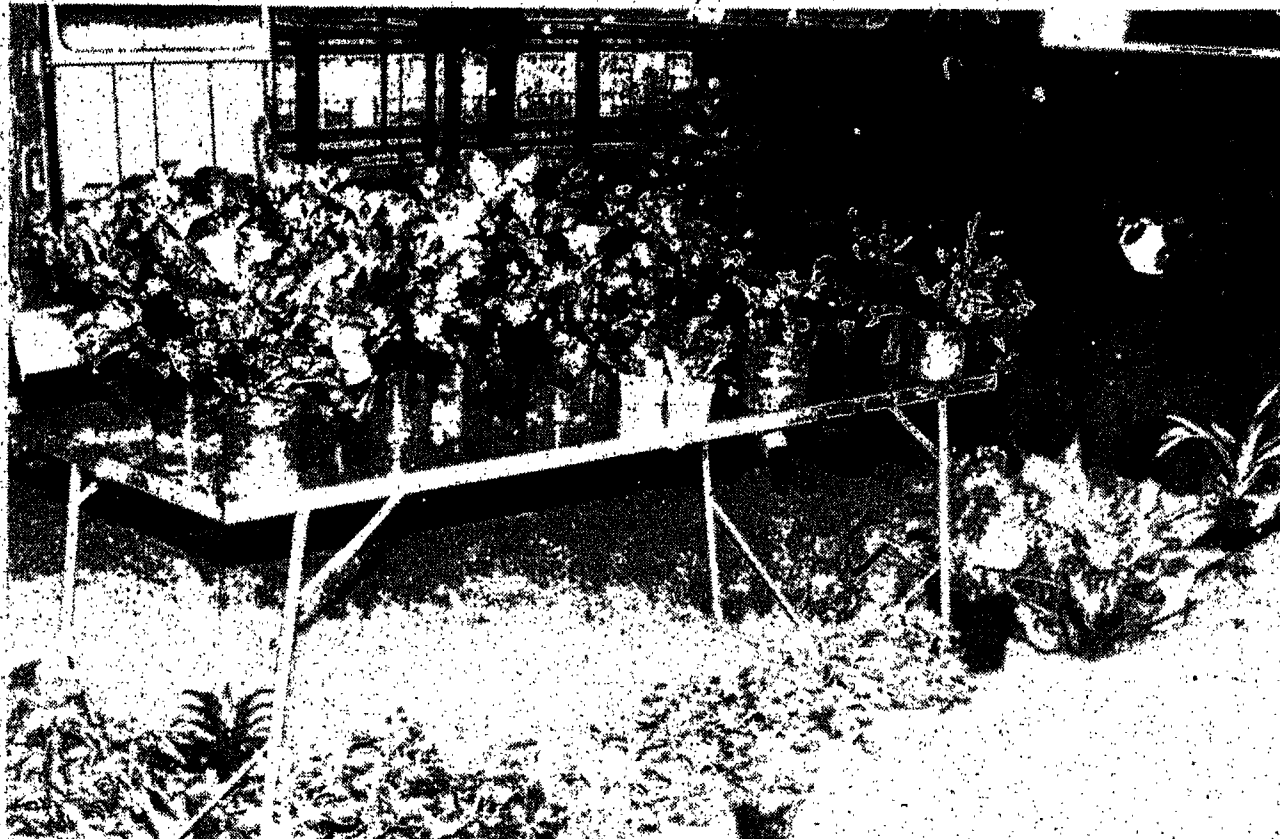

Members of the technical advisory committee are George Parsons, director of the Office of Planning and Policy, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs; Jesse Greer, executive director of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors; Pat Dunne, executive director of the Community Development Department, City of Piquette; Cono Caranna, president of the City Attorneys' Association; Bill Hackett, executive director of the Mississippi Department of Economic Development; Charles Chisolm, director of the Bureau of Pollution Control, Mississippi Department of Natural Resources; Harvey Johnson, executive director of the Mississippi Institute for Small Towns; Larry Farmer, director of training and development for Mississippi Action for Community Education, Inc.; Joe A. Waggoner, CDBG consultant; E. Robert Daley, director of local area development for the Research and Development Center; Tommie G. Jeffcoat, city clerk of Greenville, and Charles Holmes, executive director of the Central Mississippi Planning and Development District.

Policy advisory committee members are Dick Molpus, coordinator of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs; John Bailey, president of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors; Billy Martin, mayor of Lexington; Rebecca Graham, mayor of Hattiesburg; John D. Meridian, mayor of Ocean Springs; James M. Hopper, member of the Leflore County Board of Supervisors; Dr. Jim Meredith, director of the Research and Development Center; Robert D. Landry, professor at the University of Southern Mississippi; Howard N. Belfry, member of the Hinds County Board of Supervisors; Kenneth M. Murphy, Delta State County administrator; Glen B. Brown, Agricultural Committee chairman; Mississippi State Senator Ed Perry, Appropriations Committee chairman; Mississippi House of Representatives and Robert LaFlore, mayor of Bay.

CONSERVATION-ENVIRONMENT

Farmers and landowners participating in the agricultural conservation program are helping to restore, protect and preserve our environment by the use of good conservation practices. According to Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office, the agricultural conservation program has been helping our environment while conserving our soil and water resources since 1982.

Gennin said that the agricultural conservation program is related to the objectives of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act and is committed to improving and preserving the quality of our waters.

Clean water is a major objective of several pieces of legislation and the agricultural conservation program is one of the prime programs designed to help our nation have clean water.

Pollution of lakes, streams, and rivers caused by run-off affects everyone, and farmers practicing good conservation farming are doing their part.

The 1982 Agricultural Conservation Program in Pearl River and Hancock Counties sign-up was held in February. However, we still have funds for cost-sharing with farmers to perform conservation practices. Farm operators that have not signed up still have an opportunity to request cost-sharing.

Prime emphasis of ACP is on practices which provide solutions to the problems of farmland being a source of agricultural pollution on land affected by water or wind erosion.

FARM CHANGES

Pearl River and Hancock County producers are urged not to delay reporting any changes in farm operations for the 1982 program year to our office, Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office said.

For ASCS to help producers get program benefits, farm records must be up to date. Therefore, the producer should contact the county ASCS office if there has been a change in the land a farmer owns or operates, if a farm will have a new owner effective for 1982, or if a change is made in the operation of an existing unit.

"Plans to combine farms or divide a farm should be requested as soon as possible because reconstitutions require special processing as well as county committee approval," he said.

Likewise, Gennin said, farmers who want to establish proven yields for 1982 feed grains or wheat should prepare to assemble proof of production records for this year's crop.

The ASCS official said production evidence must be kept separate for each year and for each farm. When yield notices are sent out, farmers will be given the opportunity to request a proven yield if production evidence so warrants.

WHAT ABOUT THE RIGHTS OF VICTIMS?

When a thief breaks into your home and robs you or destroys your property, you suffer a real loss.

When he's caught and convicted, the criminal may be sent to jail to pay his debt to society. But what about his debt to you?

Who pays to fix your house? Who pays to replace your valuables?

It just doesn't seem fair that you or your insurance company should have to pay. Especially when the guilty person has already been caught and convicted.

Why not make the criminal pay for the damage he did?

You can. That's what victim restitution is all about. It's a law recently passed by the Mississippi Legislature.

But long before it became part of the law, James Thomas was working to make victim restitution a vital part of our criminal justice system.

"Equal protection under the law is the foundation of our democracy. But sometimes it seems like criminals are more equal than their victims."

"I feel that a criminal should have to pay for any damage he's caused his victims. As Assistant District Attorney, I've routinely recommended that restitution be made a part of the sentencing of criminals."

"As Judge, I'll administer justice fairly, firmly and impartially. So criminals will think twice before they act."

As our Assistant District Attorney, James Thomas has worked for us in the Circuit Court for nearly a decade. He's prosecuted hundreds of cases in the very courtroom he'll preside over as judge.

He knows the law. He knows how the Circuit Court works. And he's in touch with the people he serves.

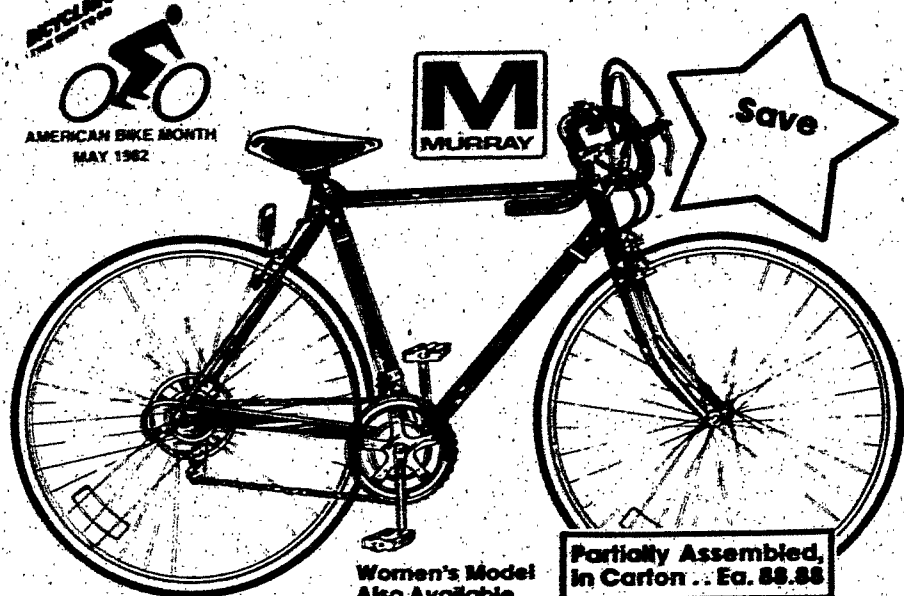

On June 1st, let's elect James Thomas, Circuit Court Judge, Place 1.

Broadcaster takes state PR position

Ed Jussely Jr., Mississippi broadcast journalist, has been named public affairs officer for the Department of Public Safety in Jackson.

In making the announcement, Sidney B. Berry, commissioner of public safety, said the appointment becomes effective June 1.

Jussely is presently news director of television station WXYT in Greenville.

Jussely, 35 fills the position formerly held by Kenneth W. Fairley who assumed the duties of chief of police in Natchez earlier this year. Berry said Jussely's experience as a newsman in both broadcast and print journalism provides a well-rounded background which should enhance the agency's efforts of keeping the public informed of pertinent law enforcement matters.

For 3.5 years, Jussely was an assistant to U.S. Senator John Stennis in Washington, D.C. His primary assignment involved media relations.

Prior to that time he was the on-the-air newsman for a television station in the Hattiesburg-Laurel area and later reported for the Laurel Leader-Call newspaper. For a while Jussely resided in Tuscaloosa, Ala. where he was affiliated with station WCFT-TV.

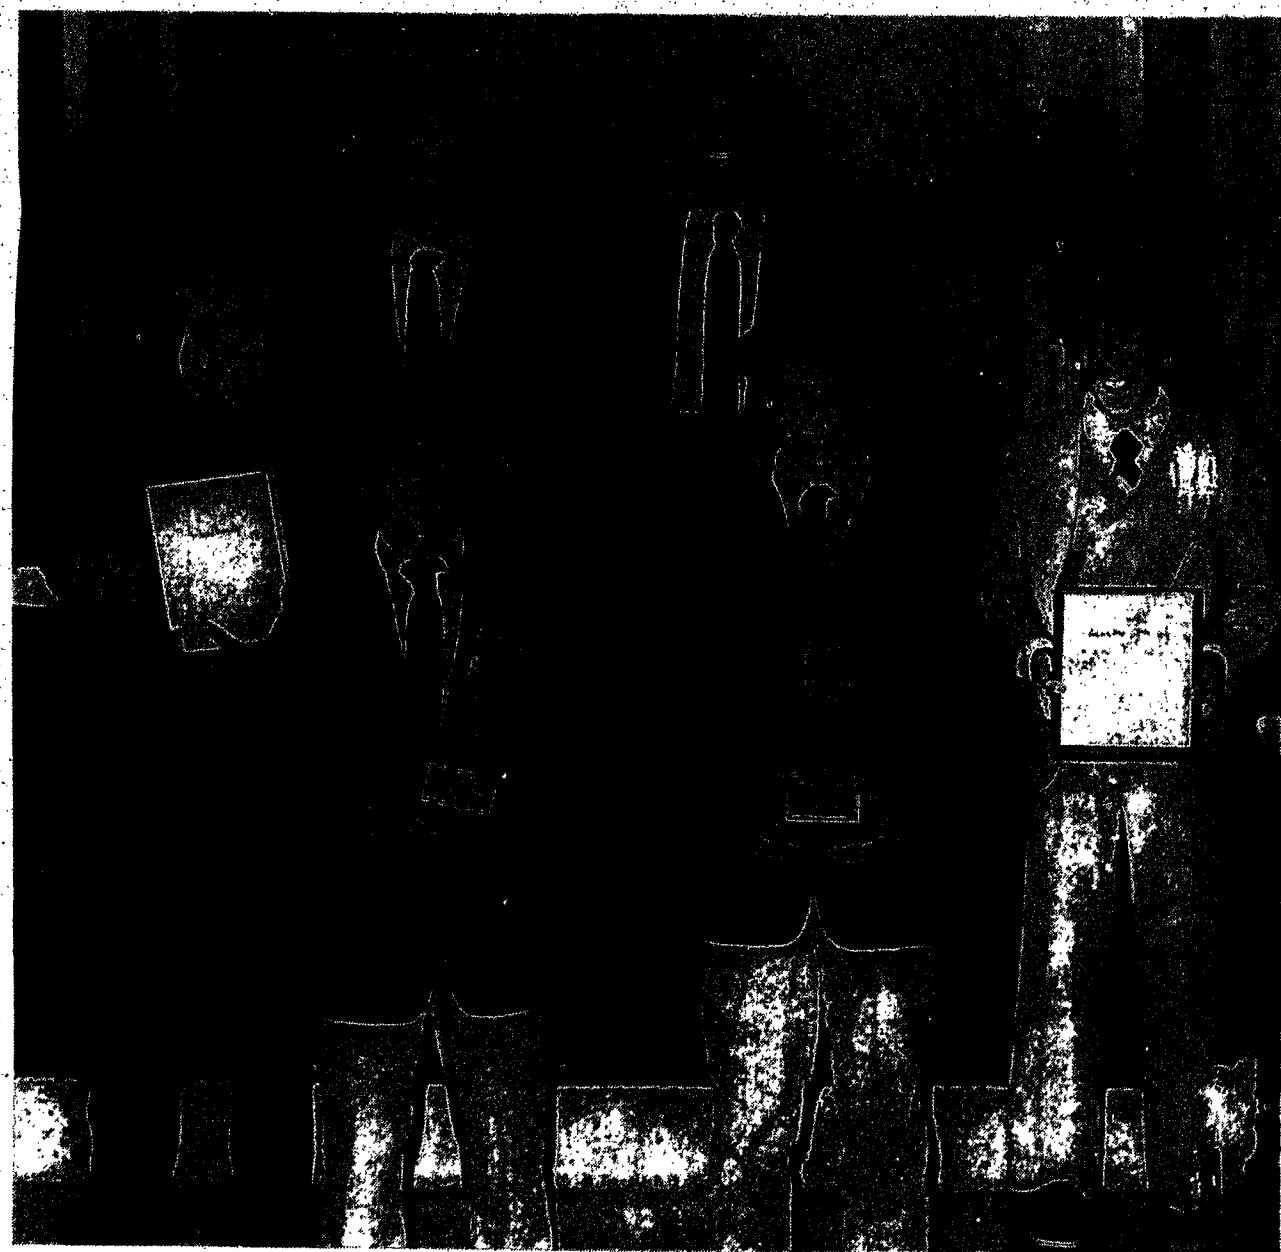

Jussely and his wife, the former Gail McCoy of Hattiesburg, are the parents of a daughter and son. They are members of the First Presbyterian Church of Greenville.

USM scholarship goes to Kergosien

Patrick J. Kergosien, son of Mrs. Phil Joseph Kergosien of Bay St. Louis, has been chosen to receive an Honors College scholarship to the University of Southern Mississippi.

A senior at St. Stanislaus High School, Kergosien had to score a minimum composite score of 28 on the American College Test to be considered for the scholarship.

His high school principal or counselor and two teachers had to evaluate him in the areas of general academic potential, capacity for individual study, ability to carry on discussion, evidence of intellectual curiosity and knowledge of current events. In addition, each student underwent intensive evaluation by the Honors College staff.

Kergosien, who served as treasurer for the National Honor Society, has set school and conference records in pole vaulting during his four years of high school.

He received an award for writing done on the school paper and is a member of the Spanish Honor Society. Kergosien plans to major in polymer science.

"Good Judges Make Good Government"

CLYDE HURLBERT For Circuit Judge

"The Circuit Judge's job is to see that the people of the State of Mississippi, plaintiffs, defendants, and victims, all get a fair trial."

The jury must rely upon the Circuit Judge to instruct them as to each point of the law in reaching a verdict. Any mistakes made by an inexperienced judge as to the law may result in appeals, and increased cost to the taxpayers and litigants if a new trial is necessary.

The Judge's duty to pronounce sentence comes only after a guilty verdict. Whether or not that verdict and sentence will stand up on an appeal depends largely on the ability of the trial judge to see that the trial has been conducted according to law.

Therefore, a Circuit Judge must have a full knowledge of the law concerning all types of cases, both criminal and civil. Someone like Clyde Hurlbert!

Clyde Hurlbert has tried cases of every type, criminal and civil, in all of the State, County and Federal Courts for 22 years, seven and a half years of which he served as State Prosecutor. That experience speaks for itself.

If you want a Judge who thinks and speaks for himself—

If you want a Judge who is fair and honest—

If you want a Judge who is truly qualified—

Benvenuti replaces Gibson in power company Bay office

Perry Gibson, Mississippi Power Company local manager in Bay St. Louis since 1969, will retire effective Tuesday after 22 years service with the utility.

Mississippi Power Company Gulfport Division, General Manager Cummings McCall Jr. said Gibson will be replaced by Ernest (Ben) Benvenuti, electric serviceman in Pass Christian who has nearly 30 years service with the company.

"On the occasion of this retirement, we extend our sincere best wishes to Perry. His many years of dedicated service to Mississippi Power Company and to its customers and his support of and involvement in civic affairs are an inspiration to all who know him," McCall said.

As Mr. Benvenuti assumes his responsibilities as local manager in Bay St. Louis, we are confident that his many years' experience will be an asset to the community as Mississippi Power Company strives to provide dependable electric service to customers in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland area," McCall concluded.

Gibson began his career with Mississippi Power Company in 1940 as a truck operator-apprentice lineman. Following a five-year tour of duty in the United States Air Force during World War II, he was named local manager at Biloxi in 1946. He served in that capacity until 1969 when he transferred to Bay St. Louis as local manager.

He has served as a member of the Mississippi State Parks Commission and the Hospital Governing Board and as a representative to the Southern Mississippi Tourist Promotion Council. Gibson recently was named Citizen of the Year for 1981 by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

Benvenuti, a native of Pass Christian, joined Mississippi Power Company in 1963 as a tree trimmer and later was reassigned as meter reader.

In subsequent years he served as a customer serviceman and as a utilityman. He was promoted to electric serviceman in 1977.

He served in the United States Marine Corps from 1948 to 1953 and is a member of the Cecil Ruddock Post No. 5031, Veterans of Foreign Wars in Pass Christian. He is a past president and secretary of the Pass Christian Municipal School System and is a member of St. Paul's Catholic Church in Pass Christian.

Benvenuti is married to the former Dorothy Ann Niolet of Delisle, and they have three children: Keith of Gulfport; Mrs. Michelle Deaton of Moss Point; and Mrs. Jan Harper of LaGrange, Georgia.

BSLT's 'Butler' continues

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's current production of the three-act comedy 'The Butler Did It' continues Friday and Saturday at the theatre's Boardman Street Playhouse.

The spoof of English mystery plays by Tim Kelly opened last weekend before enthusiastic audiences, capturing favorable reviews in The Sea Coast Echo and Daily Herald.

Performances at 8:15 p.m. each evening. Admission is $4 per person at the door.

Chicken salad is one of my favorite warm weather luncheon dishes, when it's made the way the busy bees of Martha's Guild of Trinity Church in the Pass made their gallons and gallons of it for their Spring benefit luncheon recently in the Parish House—chunks and chunks of well-seasoned chicken, with just enough mayonnaise to bind it together—and the tasty added touch of green grapes and pecans for good measure!

Head chef Alicia Ellis and her crew turned out close to 200 luncheon plates, and delicious they were. Here's the recipe, cut down to size when you're not expecting a couple of hundred over for lunch. It's also a delicious buffet supper choice. Here's

CHICKEN SALAD
MARTHA

First simmer a three-pound chicken in water seasoned with celery, salt, and pepper. Cool, pick meat off bones, and chop.

1/2 cup Mayonnaise
1 tsp. yellow mustard
1/2 tsp. Dijon mustard
1 Tbsp. pickle relish
2 hard-boiled eggs chopped fine

1/4 cup grapes, halved
1/4 cup chopped pecans
Pepper, salt to taste.

Mix the mayonnaise, mustards, relish, eggs together. Add the chicken, mixing well, and seasoning to your taste. Add the grapes and pecans last. Refrigerate overnight. If the mixture is too dry, add a little of the broth left over after cooking the chicken, along with a bit more mayo.

And with this, serve the Trinity Toasties such as we were served at the luncheon: slice and butter lightly and of poor boy French bread. Sprinkle Italian seasoning, Parmesan cheese and paprika on each slice.

Dry in a 300 degree oven for an hour or longer. Store in a tightly closed tin. (Will keep for about a week) - and what a tasty use, incidentally, for stale bread - make as little or as much as you wish.

CROCKETT LINDSEY JUDGE CIRCUIT COURT

THIS IS WHY CROCKETT LINDSEY SHOULD BE ELECTED:

A dedicated and innovative judge, Crockett Lindsey established the state's first Misdemeanor Probation Office; he instituted work programs for city prisoners and juvenile traffic offenders; he developed the first Citizen's Dispute Settlement Program in Southern Mississippi; and he implemented the area's first Misdemeanor Victim Restitution Program. His plan was so unique and effective that cities throughout Mississippi soon modeled programs of their own after it.

Crockett began his legal training at Ole Miss, where he received a Bachelor's Degree in Political Science. While in college, he married the former Sue Hughes and today is the father of two children, a son, Wade and daughter, Courtney. He received his Law Degree from Ole Miss, was admitted to the bar, and with confidence in his own ability began a private practice which has grown in stature and service.

Bella, a member of the Mississippi Municipal Judges' Conference, an organization dedicated to the improvement of the state's judicial system. He served as the Conference's President and Vice President and was a member of its Board of Directors and Legislative Committee.

Vice President of the Municipal Judges' Conference, Crockett drafted legislation which led to the improvement and modernization of the state's judicial system. His leadership also led to the adoption of uniform rules of procedure and uniform case and practice by Mississippi municipal judges which were hailed by state law makers and judges.

True to his dedication to the judiciary, Crockett attended advanced courses of study sponsored by the American Bar Association, the Mississippi Judicial College and the National Judicial Institute. He is a former Special Master (Court-appointed Judge) in the Harrison County Circuit Court, a member of the Harrison County Bar Association, and the Mississippi State Bar Association, and has been named "Honorable" by the American Bar Association.

As a dedicated and innovative judge, Crockett Lindsey has brought order and justice to the courts, and has made the judicial system more efficient and more accessible to the people.

For more information, contact Judge Crockett Lindsey at 467-2100 or 467-2101.

REAGAN INTERVIEW

Tony Brown's interview with President Reagan for "Tony Brown's Journal" will be rebroadcast at 3:30 p.m., Sunday, May 30, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

The program, "The President and Black America," was first seen on "Tony Brown's Journal" on April 4.

In his interview, Reagan fields an array of questions from Brown, who finds the President aware of the charges of racism and personal demagoguery, but feels that in the end his record on racial matters will "indicate what's in his heart. If I have an intolerance at all, it is an intolerance for bigotry and prejudice," Reagan said.

The build-up to Brown's interview was a rejection of Reagan at the polls by blacks, followed by a lingering doubt that he would heartily oppose discrimination and culminating in a fierce outcry when his administration allowed tax exemptions for private schools that segregate.

Bay woman to compete in:

Dressage horse show set this weekend in Louisiana

A Bay St. Louis woman will be the only Hancock County resident competing in the Louisiana Second Annual Dressage Championship Horse Show in Maplewood Arena, Covington, La. May 29 and 30.

Auriol Hessemer, an English riding instructor living at the site of the Bay Marina Village townhouse development, will be riding her horse Scimitar in upper level competition.

Dana O'Meallie, of the Ladner community, will be Hessemer's groom during the two day event, which will feature horses and riders executing 13 different riding tests at a fourth level.

Scores, similar to Olympic ice skating judging, will be measured against an ideal at each level of training.

Robert Hall of Arken, S.C., an international rider, teacher, judge and creator of the Fulmer School of Equitation, will judge the show.

Hall served as official trainer for the British Dressage team in four Olympics.

Hessemer said she expects some very tough competition. Included in the field of competitors is the Sue Malone-Casey Riding Fleet of Folsom, a thoroughbred team which recently received the U.S. Dressage Federation Bronze Medal.

Other competition will include Sissy Ryan of Happy Valley Farm in Hattiesburg, who owns the only United States Dressage and Combined training course in Mississippi.

Barbara O'Meallie, of the Ladner Community, a horse owner and stable operator, explained that dressage is a classical schooling of horse and rider.

"An extremely large investment of time and personal commitment are necessary to develop a dressage horse," she said.

"While the horse can be of any breed, he must exercise agility, suppleness and obedience to the subtle cues of the rider, in all gaits. A well trained horse is exciting to watch and a joy to ride," she added.

As an example of some of the finest dressage horses in the world, O'Meallie noted, "Many of us have enjoyed the elegance and grace of the Lippizans in their exhibitions at the Coliseum. These horses are the ultimate of the classical dressage horse."

"Their performances can be compared to that of a ballet," she said.

Currently Mississippi does not yet have its own dressage organization.

However, O'Meallie explained, "Interest in dressage training and competition is increasing on the Gulf Coast and plans for a fall show here are being considered."

LIKE BALLET—Auriol Hessemer on her horse Scimitar demonstrates a plegasse, an elevated exaggerated trot where the horse has little forward motion and appears to be prancing. This is one of the many types of moves which will be required of horse and rider when the two compete this weekend in the Louisiana Second Annual Dressage Horse Show in Maplewood Arena, Covington. Pass School Board eyes revenue cuts Superintendent Leroy Lizana of the Pass Christian School District reports the district received notice of an $18,038 reduction in state funds for the 1982-83 school term.

According to Lizana, all school districts in the state will suffer a reduction in their minimum program (MP) funding for the next school year because of failure by the Legislature to allocate sufficient funds for school operations for the ensuing school year.

According to Lizana, the reduction loss amounts to approximately 1.45 percent of the projects Minimum Program allocation for school year 1983.

The State Department of Education has projected a shortage of $6,601,455 for the State Minimum Program for fiscal year 1983.

Lizana informed the board that notification had been received of the grant award for ECIA Chapter I funds for Fiscal Year 83.

The Education Consolidation Improvement Act (ECIA) Chapter I is the program formerly operated as Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Lizana stated that the school district's allocation for Fiscal Year 83 is $87,595.

This figure is $18,342 less than the $105,937 allocation the school district received for Fiscal Year 82.

According to Lizana the new project application contains basically the same personnel and program structure as the 1982 project.

The school district was able to retain all of the Title I personnel because there was a total of $15,977 in uncommitted funds from the Fiscal Year 82 allocation.

However, for the ensuing school year, 1983, it will be necessary to program all of the $87,595 and the $15,977 carryover into the 1983 project.

This means that there will be no carryover for the following year Fiscal Year 84, according to Lizana, and it will be difficult to project the future of ECIA Chapter I beyond the 1983 school term, he said.

Chapter I is a compensatory program in reading and mathematics in grades 2-6.

The program currently has a total of three teachers and five aides. Pass Christian Elementary School has a reading-math teacher and an aide for grades 2-4; DeLisle Elementary School has a part-time (75 percent) reading-math teacher and a full-time aide; and Pass Christian Middle School has a reading teacher and three aides for grades 5-8.

The program can only serve those students who have been adjudged to be in need of special academic help.

In an attendance report for the seventh school month, Lizana noted 1,366 students enrolled in grades K-12 with an average daily attendance (ADA) of 1,274.00.

This figure represents a 94 percent enrollment in ADA.

The figure, also represents an increase of 43 students over a comparable figure for grades 1-12 during the seventh month of the 1980-81 school term.

In receiving a report from board architect John Mykolyk the board learned that there are more serious roof problems in the district.

Of immediate concern is the roof on the gymnasium at the high school and the roof on the dressing room at the rear of the Middle School gymnasium.

According to Mykolyk, both roofs are beyond repair and must be replaced.

Following the discussion the Board authorized the architect to prepare plans and specifications for replacing the roofs.

Lizana reported that the school district will earn interest on investment in excess of $50,000 during the current school year.

According to Lizana this figure will equate to approximately 60 percent of the $80,000 in local funds required to operate the Kindergarten Program during the current school year.

For the past two years the Pass Christian School District and the Long Beach School District have been sharing in the service of administrative and clerical help in a special education consortium between the two districts.

New special education requirements which are scheduled to take effect on July 1 place a greater load on the personnel working in this area.

Therefore, it has been determined that the work load will be too great for one person to supervise two districts following the current school year.

The two districts have agreed to dissolve the consortium and each district provide service from within the district.

Lizana indicated that the school district will receive funding under PL 94-142 that can be used to defray most of the cost involved in establishing a program and employing a supervisor of special education for the Pass Christian School District.

In other matters the board received a report that all schools in the district have received a "AA" rating from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and the Mississippi State Accrediting Commission.

Received bids for goods and services for the 1982-83 school term. Most bids were taken under advisement.

Approved Claim Dockets of Bills and Invoices, financial reports, and payrolls for the month. Payrolls for the month of April totaled $173,386.

Included in the payrolls were District Maintenance, $64,887; Minimum Program, $87,020; Consortium Fund, $1,435; Cafeteria, $9,516; Title I, $6,970.

How Smoking Encourages Heartburn

Cigarette smokers who enjoy a cigarette at the end of a meal should not be surprised if they have heartburn later, according to Dr. Donald O. Castell, Director, Digestive Diseases Division, and Professor of Medicine at the Uniformed Services University.

Since there are so many types of stomach disorders, many people do not understand what heartburn is and what causes it. "There is a high-pressure zone between the stomach and the esophagus," says Dr. Castell. "Since the pressure of the esophagus is considerably less than in the stomach, the high-pressure zone acts as a barrier against the regurgitation of gastric acid into the esophagus. When the pressure is relaxed for any reason (e.g., after that cigarette), there is a backup of stomach contents into the esophagus, accounting for the burning sensation and sour taste known as 'heartburn.' Gravity also plays a contributory role; that is why most heartburn sufferers feel worse when they lie down."

Dr. Castell offers several suggestions for people who suffer from heartburn:

- Cut out that cigarette following a meal
- Avoid foods that may stimulate acid secretion in the stomach, such as coffee and alcohol
- Sleep with the head of your bed raised about six inches (preferably by placing blocks under the legs at the head of the bed)
- Don't lie down right after eating
- Don't wear clothes that fit tightly around the waist
- Reduce if you're overweight
- Avoid fatty foods and chocolates, as well as greasy and spicy foods
- Stop or cut down on smoking

DICK CAVETT IN THE MORNING—"The Dick Cavett Show" can be seen during the summer on Mississippi ETV at 9 a.m., weekdays, beginning May 31. The talk show will continue to be seen at 10 weeknights, as the ETV evening programming schedule permits.

THE HOTTER IT GETS, THE HARDER YOUR AIR CONDITIONING WORKS

It's an uncomfortable fact of life that the higher the temperature rises, the harder your air conditioning works. Which means higher electric bills.

At Mississippi Power, we're doing everything in our power to help hold down the cost of electricity. While there's not much we can do about the heat and humidity, we can tell you the best ways we know of to keep your home cool and comfortable while helping reduce the cost of your air conditioning.

▲ Set your thermostat at 78° or higher.

▲ Use ceiling and room fans as often as possible.

▲ Keep your shades and drapes drawn on the sunny side of the house.

▲ Caulk and weatherstrip your doors and windows to minimize cooling loss.

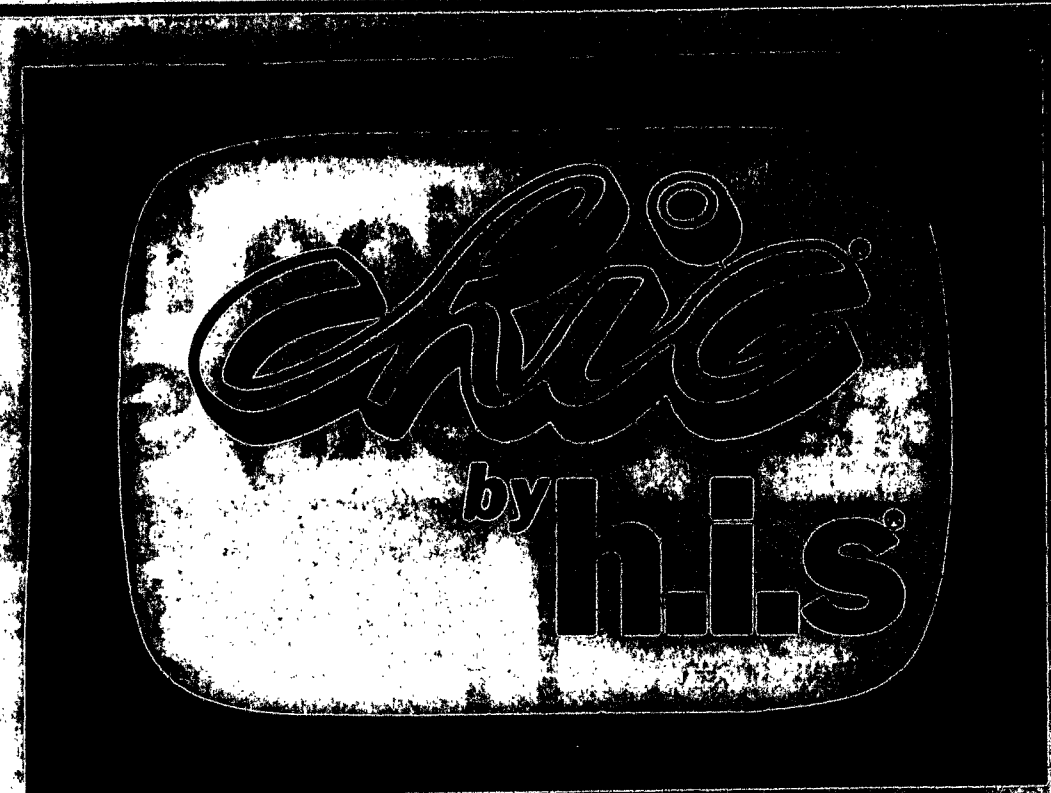

▲ Turn off all unnecessary lights.

▲ Run your washer/dryer and dishwasher during the cooler hours of the day.

▲ Add extra insulation to the ceiling.

For more energy and money saving ways to keep your cool, call or write Mississippi Power.

Bay women donate time, money to form student theatre group

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Two Bay St. Louis women recently organized a Bay Senior High School Drama Club and are donating time and money to provide students with instruction in various facets of theatre production.

Laurie Byrd and Mike Cuevas, both Bay St. Louis Little Theatre veterans, say they organized the group because Bay High is the only school on the Mississippi Gulf Coast which does not offer theatre arts in its curriculum.

Cuevas states, "What we're trying to do is provide a creative outlet for students with theatrical talent. Students here are working on playwriting, stage craft (acting and walking through scenes) correct use of the stage and makeup."

Assisting the two are Bay St. Louis residents Lady Carver teaching oratory and interpretive reading, Layne Bourgeois instructing makeup clinics, and John Holmes conducting technical classes.

Byrd says about 11 teenage girls are members of the group, but more boys are needed for male character roles.

She also states, "Any adults with specific theatrical talents who would like to work one hour each week in a specific area, are needed to instruct students."

Cuevas and Byrd also hope to assist their students in obtaining theatrical scholarships at universities and colleges.

"We've made excellent college and university contacts which allows us to open doors for students interested in theatre, dance, music and technical direction," Cuevas reports.

Byrd says, "You can't just take to the stage and be an actor. You have to be able to establish contacts at various universities."

"We know how hard it is to get money for college tuition, especially now since there are fewer student loans offered. We know key people at universities from Mississippi to New York," she states.

Cuevas reports she and Byrd decided to begin a high school program here after representing the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre in national competition last year. "Seeing high school student competition, and knowing there was no theatre arts program offered here gave us the idea to begin a local program," she explains.

Regarding the type of theatre arts program offered to Bay High students, Byrd notes, "We are trying to develop a good ensemble group—a stylized ensemble theatre production. This is a more avant garde endeavor which incorporates drama with movement."

"What we do is teach our students legitimate theatre, not just bright pieces of fluff which are all high school students usually are taught. Our students have to go beyond themselves and learn characters which are past their years," she explains.

Cuevas adds, "This requires discipline and talent."

Byrd states, "We do not allow any drinking or drug use here, and we're not a baby-sitting group."

"We intend to work all summer and enter competition in October. We tell our students this is not playtime, but time for hard work," she notes.

Cuevas feels, "If our students just learn self discipline, this will be an accomplishment in itself."

She says all students understand that they must maintain at least a C average scholastically to remain with the class.

The young thespians meet once each week after school hours at the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre Playhouse on Boardman Avenue.

Byrd notes the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District has approved the group and the theatre allows the club to utilize the building.

Cuevas explains the group is rehearsing scenes from 'Machinal' and 'The Shadow Box' and the recognition scene from 'An American in Paris'.

the governor's scene from 'The Good Doctor'.

We are writing up a program of short scenes and monologues for our club members to perform for their parents' at home.
